Dear Sir/Madam,

I'm writing to declare our support and approval for Jen Wight-Waltman's desire to obtain a town-issued Special Use Permit, which would allow her to continue to run a small doggy daycare service from her home on Brattle Place in Arlington. As I understand it, a recent change in the law now classifies the service as a business and thus requires the special permit because it's in a residential area.

Terri (my wife) and I have been living at 77 Brattle Street (the corner of Brattle Place and Brattle Street) for the past 27 years. Over the past several years, her doggy daycare has caused no disruption, inconvenience, or extra noise for us at all. We've also heard of no complaint from any of other neighbors.

Jen seems intent on keeping her business as it has been: small and as unobtrusive to the neighbors as possible. So, Terri & I hope that she can get the town's approval for the Special Use Permit, and can keep her small business at her home instead of moving it elsewhere. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Eric Brosius
