Subject: Review of Lowell St parking on both sides of street?
Provide details here: Hello, I'm not sure who to talk to about this question:

I live at 116-118 Lowell St. It seems there is currently parking allowed on both sides of the street, although I thought I remembered there were 'no parking' signs before renovations started at the 20 Westminster St project a couple of years ago. Parking on both sides of Lowell St wasn't really an issue until recently, when the 19R Park Ave construction project started bringing in more daily workers. The parking on both sides of Lowell St has become a serious problem recently, and creates hazardous conditions due to the difficulty of cars - and especially trucks - being able to safely pass each other. The Police Dept has been great, but they haven't been able to do much, and only yesterday did I find out from them that on-street parking on both sides of the street may be allowed.

Here's my question:

Can I (and how would I) request a traffic expert to come and evaluate the parking and traffic situation on Lowell St? Is there a traffic expert who could determine if the 'no parking' signs are supposed to be re-posted, or, if they are not currently designated, could a traffic expert determine that they are necessary? If I need to write a letter or get my neighbors to sign some kind of a request petition I am willing to do that. I'm just not clear from reading the Town's website on what the process is for this type of request.

Thank you, Barbara Owens
